Self-feeding toddlers: mess, fuss and frustration all round

At the age of around one most children become determined to feed themselves.

This is a frustrating time for toddlers, as their motor coordination is not yet fully developed and their attention span is short. They have the desire to self-feed but don't necessarily have the ability to do it. Result? Hungry, frustrated toddler, lots of mess and stressful mealtimes

What is the Salmon Luke me-feed-me collection?

The me-feed-me collection from Salmon Luke includes a bowl and cutlery set which have been designed to make it easier for children to master the tricky art of self-feeding.
